INTRODUCTION.

To the General Public:

In presenting to you this little volume we beg respectfully to call your attention to a few facts connected with the same, not only for the general information contained herein as a guide to most of the leading business houses in this city. We believe this to be the first of the kind ever issued on an elaborate scale in this Northwest country, and coming as it does, in conjunction with the first great Industrial Exhibition ever held in Winnipeg, we think, cannot fail to be of interest and value to all those who may be favored with a copy. A great many visiting the city are perhaps unacquainted with many of the minute details connected therewith, and in this work we have endeavored in as brief a space as possible to lay before you a guide full of general information.

We ask you to carefully preserve it for future reference as you may desire, if not at the present time, at some future date, to glean some information which perhaps will be hard to obtain unless through the medium of such a work.

Thanking those who have favored us with their patronage and hoping all may receive more than value for the outlay, and apologizing for any shortcomings it may contain which may have arisen through hasty preparation.

We are respectfully yours,

E. LEROY PELKEY.

CHAPTER I.

DESCRIPTION OF WINNIPEG.—PAST AND PRESENT.

Few having seen Winnipeg twenty years ago could realize that it would become the city of vast importance it now is. Then there was nothing but a small post of the Hudsons Bay where the Indians congregated to sell or trade their furs. A wonderful change is now before the reader which is almost too great to conceive. In the wilderness that was we find twenty-seven thousand people with forty millions of dollars of business. Railways connecting us with the Atlantic and the Pacific and the United States. The enormous business blocks, magnificent churches, colleges and schools, elegant mansions and residences with cultivated lawns and trees, miles of street railways electric and horse power, gas and electric lights, telephone system, water works and all the accessories to the refinements and comforts that help to make life enjoyable and promote civilization to the highest degree. Never before was such rapid and solid progress seen, and to those who have not actually witnessed it, it seems incredible and appears to border on the romantic. Never was seen a parallel case. Calmly considered, this is not so wonderful as it appears to the casual observer. Far-seeing men who explored this country when it was but one vast area of prairie, prophesied with all its natural advantage it must some day be the great centre to which the products of the great and fertile North-West must be sent for distribution to the world. Lord Lorne said in 1881, "Unknown, a few years ago, we now see Winnipeg rapidly lifting itself to the front rank amongst the commercial centres of the continent. We may look in vain elsewhere for a situation so favorable and so commanding."

Many as are the fair regions of which we can boast, there may be some among you before who's eyes the whole wonderful panorama of our provinces has passed, the ocean garden island of Prince Edward, the magnificent valleys of St. John and Sussex, the marvellous country the home of Evangeline where Blomidon looks down on the Fundy, and over tracks of red soil richer than the weald of Kent; you may have seen the fortified paradise of Quebec, and Montreal, whose prosperity and beauty are worthy of her great St. Lawrence; and you may have admired the well wrought and splendid province of Ontario and rejoiced at the growth of her capital Toronto, and yet nowhere can you find a situation whose natural advantages promise us so great a future as that which seems assured to Manitoba and Winnipeg, the heart city of our Dominion. We have several of such prophecies before us all from prominent men who were fully competent to judge, and the correctness of their estimate is easily seen to-day. Never were the prospects as bright as they are at present with splendid crops, real estate rapidly but sensibly increasing in price and new business enterprises going ahead, we may be justly proud of the wonderful strides our city has made and the glorious future that awaits us.

CHAPTER II.

OUR PIONEERS.

The employees of the Hudson's Bay Company came in 1670 and under their charter granted to Prince Rupert and his associates took possession of the country around Hudson's Bay where they established posts, and traded, amongst other things, fire arms and ammunition to the Cree and Assiniboine Indians. In 1793 the Hudson's Bay Company's servants appeared for the first time in the Red River country. They organized several trading posts, among them being Fort Douglas.

This was the first sign that indicated that there would be a settlement where Winnipeg now stands. The Indians were still in possession of the country excepting a few scattered posts which were held by the Hudson's Bay Co. Then the Earl of Selkirk, who was a large shareholder in the Company secured a patent in the interests of immigration and in 1812 a number of Scotch settlers arrived after a long and dangerous journey via York Factory, on Hudson's Bay, to Red River only to meet further difficulties upon their arrival. The Northwestern Fur Company, represented by French Canadian traders attracted hither by the chance of large profits to be made by trade, settled and married amongst the Indians. From them originated the Bois Brules or Metis who, thinking this was a move on the part of the Hudson's Bay Co. to assert their authority, persecuted the poor immigrants until they were obliged to move to Pembina where they stopped until Lord Selkirk arrived with reinforcements when after some blood-shed peace was restored. The progress of the country was retarded by the bickering between the Hudson's Bay Co. and the Northwestern Fur Co., but on the death of the Earl of Selkirk in 1820 the two companies joined forces, which put an end to the struggle. The new Company occupied Fort Gibraltar at the confluence of the Red and Assiniboine rivers where they traded with the Indians and settlers. In 1826 came another blow; an extraordinarily heavy snow fall had occurred through the winter and in the spring it caused a terrible flood which frightened away a good many foreign settlers, but the Scotch and French Canadian settlers stuck to it not being willing to forego such a fertile country on account of a few mishaps. Soon after followed the rebellion, and owing to the fact that far more skillful writers than ourselves have made every detail a bye-word we will leave it alone and just outline the progress made.

CHAPTER III.

RISE OF WINNIPEG.

The growth of Winnipeg dates from the close of the rebellion in 1870, when Colonel Wolseley at the head of the 60th Rifles entered Fort Garry. This was the closing scene of the Red River rebellion and the march of progress was from that time commenced by the then small village of Winnipeg. From "Ten Years in Winnipeg" published by Alexander Begg and Walter R. Nursey in 1879, we learn that several free traders, merchants, finding that Fort Garry had become a place of rendezvous for the plain hunters to exchange their furs for goods, and being aware that, unless they settled down in its vicinity, the Hudson's Bay Company would have an advantage over them in securing the pelts, immediately determined to build stores as close to Fort Garry as possible. Andrew McDermott led the way, and was quickly followed by Messrs. A. G. B. Bannatyne, John Higgins, W. H. Lyon, Gingras, Henry McKenney, William Drever, Dr. Schultz, George Emmerling, H. S. Donaldson, R. Patterson, Onis Monchamp, W. G. Fonseca, E. L. Barber, and Alexander Begg. These men, therefore, and a few men not in trade, were the original founders of Winnipeg. The same authority enumerates the business houses at that time engaged in trade. There was the Hudson's Bay Company prosecuting their business within the walls of Fort Garry, next to them in importance was the firm of Bannatyne & Begg, who carried on a general outfitting establishment. Then there was John Higgins, who as a general store-keeper, displayed his sign over the spot afterwards occupied by the handsome establishment of Higgins, Younge & Jackson. He was afterwards in partnership with W. H. Lyon, but the firm was dissolved in 1869, and each entered into business on his own account. Mr. Lyon afterwards erected a substantial store on the corner where Caldwell's block now stands, and in which he remained until 1877. Dr. Schultz after practising his profession for many years, gradually devoted himself exclusively to commerce. H. S. Donaldson, one of the real pioneers of the Northwest, kept a stationery and book store, in which he greatly prospered. Robert Patterson came to the country for the purpose of trading in furs, and, being a builder by trade, afterwards erected some of the best buildings in Winnipeg. E. L. Barber and W. G. Fonseca both came from the States about the same time and carried on a small general business, also dabbling in furs, their stores being at Point Douglas, opposite what several years ago was known as "Fonseca's pump," on Main Street. One of the most original characters of the day was Geo. Emmerling, hotel-keeper. He came to this country on "spec," and, it is said, landed in Winnipeg with a barrel of whiskey and two barrels of apples. He at once opened a hotel in one of McDermott's buildings on Post Office Street. Acquiring property on the Main road he erected that portion of what was afterwards known as the Davis House. Onis. Monchamp came here a poor man, but was industrious, and when the troops arrived in Winnipeg could boast of a smart hostelry and bar on the spot where the Hotel du Canada stands to-day. Wgt. Drever did a small business in the house now occupied by St. Nicholas Hotel. J. H. Ashdown arrived in Winnipeg shortly before the rebellion and started a small tinsmith's shop in a room in the building now opposite the Hotel du Canada, on Lombard Street. He was imprisoned by Riel and his store being closed in consequence his business suffered considerably. He bought out one Moser, a tinsmith, and by strict attention to business and hard work, began to build up a good trade. Arch. Wright, though not one of the first pioneers, at the same time began business here as a harness maker in company with Mr. Stalker, before the rebellion, and, like Mr. Ashdown, suffered at the hands of Riel by being placed in prison. In 1870, United States Consul Taylor arrived, his predecessor having been Major Robinson. Mr. H. J. Clarke, Q.C., also arrived from Montreal, and this gentleman was afterwards destined to take a very prominent part in the politics of the country, being the first Premier and Attorney-General of Manitoba. The population of Winnipeg was then 215, while in 1874 it numbered 3,700 and in 1875, 5,000. In 1862, the present city was commenced by McKenny & Co., who erected a store in the vicinity of Fort Garry, and in the following year other buildings were added by people attracted to the spot through their enterprise. W. G. Fonseca was at this time running a general store at Point Douglas, which was a separate village. Mr. Fonseca, it might be remarked, was the first merchant in the Red River Settlement to import coal oil and lamps as well as hoop skirts, and so great was the demand for the first consignment that coal oil sold at $5 per gallon and a common glass lamp at the same figures, and the supply was not sufficient to meet the demand. He had some difficulty in introducing the hoop skirts as the ladies looked on them with suspicion and as a questionable novelty, and could hardly be persuaded to wear them. Winnipeg during the last days of the Hudson's Bay Company's sway is thus described: In the vicinity of Fort Garry the Town of Winnipeg had grown to some dimensions, containing as it did then over thirty buildings. Of these, eight were stores, two saloons, two hotels, one a mill and another a church, and the rest were chiefly residences. The town could boast of an engine house, post office and a small theatre, and at times, especially when the fur traders arrived from the plains, the vicinity of Winnipeg presented a very lively appearance indeed. Along the banks of the Red and Assiniboine rivers settlements had spread and everywhere could be seen signs of comfort and prosperity. Previous to 1871 the merchants of Manitoba were obliged to cart their goods over the prairie from St. Cloud, in Minnesota, to Fort Garry, but in that year, Mr. James Hill, of St. Paul, placed a steamer called the Selkirk on the Red River to run between Moorhead and Winnipeg. This was the first regular freight and passenger boat placed on the route; and as an instance of the rapid increase in the trade of Manitoba, it may be stated that when the Pembina branch railway was opened for traffic there was no less than fifteen steamers plying to and from Winnipeg. In 1870 Winnipeg had only a weekly mail from the east via Pembina, and a very irregular one at that, but in 1871 a stage line having been established between Moorhead and Winnipeg, a tri-weekly mail was received which was still further increased in 1872 to be a daily one. When the Pembina branch was regularly opened the stage line was discontinued and postal matter brought in by rail. On the 20th of November, 1871, telegraphic communication was established between Winnipeg and the east, when Lieut.-Governor Archibald sent a telegram to Lord Lisgar, then Governor General, congratulating him on the event. On March 15th of the year, the first meeting of the Local Parliament occurred. This was a prosperous year for Winnipeg and witnessed the institution of many new places of business. The first barber opened his establishment in February. The first customs-broker was Samuel Fowler, while A. K. Gerald and Henry Cotu were the first butchers. The pioneer livery stable was started in May, 1871, by Mr. William Harvey who has recently resumed the business. The first baker, John Hackett, made his appearance in the same year. A brickyard was started by a Mr. Spice close to the main road (now Main Street), a little north of the City Hall. The first saddle and harness maker was Robert Stalker who shortly afterwards went to Headingly and was succeeded by Archibald Wright who continues the business to this day. On October 31st, 1871, a new school was started at Point Douglas, and our first real live schoolmaster was Mr. Luxton. A private bank was started by Alexander McMicken, and until the Merchants Bank established a branch here, did a profitable business. Bishop & Shelton in August, 1872, opened the pioneer furniture factory in a small building on Main Street, and in the same year the first photographer, Ryder Larsen, made his appearance. During 1871 and 1872 the number of buildings in Winnipeg were doubled, and business was in a most prosperous state.

The year 1873 witnessed the first attempts to secure the incorporation of the city of Winnipeg. After much opposition a bill for that purpose was finally passed by the Legislative Assembly. The Legislative Council added an amendment and when the bill was returned to the Assembly, the Speaker, Dr. Bird, ruled that the amendment was unconstitutional as it affected the revenue of the Province, and on that account threw out the whole measure. An indignation meeting was held by the citizens and a deputation was appointed to remonstrate against this action. A few days later Dr. Bird was decoyed out of his house to see a patient and when near Point Douglas was taken forcibly from his cutter and a pail of hot tar was thrown over his face, head and shoulders. On the 25th, 26th and 27th of January, 1873, Winnipeg witnessed for the last time within its limits the celebration of an Indian dog feast, when 200 Indians assembled at Point Douglas and indulged in the delicacy of roast dog.

The first great fire occurred on December 3rd of same year, when the Parliament buildings were burned to the ground. In 1874 the Dominion elections were near at hand, a meeting was called to choose five delegates from the city to attend a Reform convention; W. F. Luxton was chairman and J. R. Cameron, secretary of the meeting. The following delegates were elected: Arch. Wright, W. B. Thibau-deau, W. F. Luxton, A. E. Wilson and J. H. Ashdown. During that year, incorporation having been secured, the first meeting of the city council was held on January the 19th, 1874. According to the voters list there were then exactly 308 voters in the city. In noticing the incorporation of the city it will be perhaps interesting to state that the name of Winnipeg was borrowed from the lake or river of the same denomination and said to be derived from two Indian words ouie nepique—"dirty water." The number of buildings then within the city limits was over 900, 27 of which were occupied by manufacturing industries, over 100 by mercantile concerns, and the remainder by offices, hotels, dwellings, etc. The population was about 3,700 and the assessed value of city property amounted to $2,076,018. The following figures showing the prices of lots in 1871, 1872 and 1874 will give an idea of the advance which had taken place in the value of city property:

Estate.	1871.	1872.	1874.
Hudson's Bay Company.....	$700 00	$1,000 00	$2,000 00
McDermott	775 00	1,100 00	1,400 00
Bannatyne.....	75 00	100 00	400 00
Morris	50 00	100 00	250 00
Schultz	50 00	100 00	500 00
Magnus Brown.....	10 00	25 00	50 00
Ross	50 00	75 00	330 00

At this time as near as can be calculated, the number of buildings in Winnipeg was as follows:—Dwellings, 408; hotels, 17; saloons, 7; boarding-houses, 23; manufactories, 27; miscellaneous buildings, 421; total, 903. The business houses were:—4 dry goods stores, 4 hardware stores, 2 watchmaker's shops, 5 book stores, 3 gunsmith's shops, 9 blacksmith's shops, 2 barber shops, 4 harness-makers, 2 tailors, 2 banks, 4 livery stables, 19 general stores, 3 drug stores, 6 paint shops, 1 marble works, 4 carriage makers, 4 printing offices, 4 furniture shops, 4 auctioneers, 3 tobacco stores, 3 boot and shoe stores, 3 photographic rooms, 2 fur stores, 6 bakers and confectioners, 1 telegraph office, 3 millinery shops, 2 flour and feed stores, 3 butcher shops, 11 lawyers, 8 doctors, 1 soda water manufactory, 3 saw mills, 2 planing mills, 3 brick-yards, etc. In 1874 the city built 4,316 yards of sidewalks and graded 1,998 yards of streets. In 1875 the city assessment showed the value of real property to be $1,808,567, and personal property $801,212, making a total of $2,609,779. The total population assessed was estimated at 3,001, and non-assessed 2,000, so that the actual inhabitants was over 5,000, a pretty good increase considering that in 1869 there were hardly 100 people in the place. Among the heavy ratepayers then were:—Hudson's Bay Company, $595,312; Bannatyne, $84,225; McDermott, $78,876; Macaulay, $44,500; and Alexander Logan, $53,000. In December, 1875, the finance committee's report showed the following disbursements to have been made:—Sewers, $4,100; fire department,

As showing the rapid increase in the trade of the Province, it is interesting to note the following figures regarding freight:—The shipment of goods from Moorhead to this Province in 1873 amounted to 26,613,036 lbs., in 1874, to 37,626,200 lbs., in 1876, to 76,078,680 lbs.

In October, 1876, the mill of the Hudson's Bay Co., leased to Mr. J. N. McLean, was finished and began running. It contained four run of stones, and without exception when built, the finest mill anywhere west of St. Paul, having a capacity of 1,350 bushels each twenty-four hours, which was considered pretty good for a young place like Winnipeg. McMillan & Bassett's mill at the foot of Post Office Street, originally begun with two run of stones, was also running. The first shipment of wheat from Manitoba was made on the 21st of October by Higgins & Young to Steel & Bros., of Toronto, and consisted of 857 bushels, which was sold in Ontario for seed purposes at $2.50 per bushel. To give some idea of the trade of the Northwest at that period one small order to J. H. Ashdown, in March 1876, may be mentioned. It consisted of 3,500 tin pails, 1,800 round pans, 1,500 oval pans, 1,800 pint cups, 1,500 half-pint cups, and 400 teapots. In the early part of 1876 there were 5,522 inhabitants in the city. The value of real property was $2,214,206; personal property $822,802, making a total of $3,037,008, or nearly half a million increase in one year. As an evidence of the value of the city property in that year, it is stated that a cash offer of $3,000 was made for a small lot next to Dr. Bird's on Main Street and refused. In 1877 the value of imports from the United States into Manitoba was $802,400, and the exports, chiefly furs, amounted to $794,868, the one nearly balancing the other. Some idea of the extent of the milling operations of that period is gained from the fact that Macaulay & Jarvis in 1877 brought from Red Lake, Minnesota, four and a half million feet of white pine logs, and thirty car loads of seasoned timber. Up to May 24th in that year there were, 77 arrivals of flat boats, bringing in 1,327 tons of freight since the opening of navigation. The first shipment of Manitoba wheat, direct from Winnipeg to Europe, was made on October 17th, the consignors being R. Gerrie & Co., and the consignees Barclay & Brand, Glasgow Scotland. The rapid strides that the place was taking towards becoming a city was evidenced by the fact that about eighty buildings

During this year the matter of railway connection with the outside world seriously engaged the attention of the citizens, many of whom had grown weary of the repeated delays in the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway from Lake Superior while at the same time the Government were proposing to adopt the northern route leaving Winnipeg out in the cold, and they looked southward for a connection with the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway, which then extended as far north as Crookston, Minn., within ninety miles of the international boundary line. Numerous meetings were held and petitions were sent to the Government urging the construction of a road from Winnipeg to Pembina, which was the objective point of the St. Paul and Manitoba road. In February, the citizens at a mass meeting passed a resolution binding the city to pay a subsidy of $200,000 to any company who would build a road, while at the same time petitions were prepared, asking the Government to give a land grant to aid in the construction. These efforts were rewarded by the Government undertaking the construction of the Pembina branch, and on September 29th the first spike was driven by Lord and Lady Dufferin, who were on a visit to the Northwest. The work of construction went rapidly forward and the people of Winnipeg rejoiced that at last they were to obtain the long desired boon of railway transportation. The road was completed in the following year, the last spike being driven on December 3rd, with this culminating act, so largely typical of our Western progress, a new era was entered upon. During 1878 building operations, owing to high prices of lumber, were less than they would otherwise have been, but despite these adverse circumstances amounted to $700,000, the population was then over 6,500, and the value of property assessed over three millions. In this year a number of merchants engaged extensively in buying wheat, and Messrs. Ogilvie & Co., of Montreal, made their first appearance in the country, offering 60 cts. cash for No. 1 hard wheat. In the course of an address in Montreal in 1878, the Bishop of Saskatchewan said of Winnipeg:—"In 1866 it was nothing more than a backwood village containing about 200 settlers, now Winnipeg was a city of over 6,000 inhabitants. In the first seven years of its existence, dating from 1870, it had increased more in its population than had the city of Chicago in the first ten years of its existence."

CHAPTER IV.

THE BOOM.

In April, 1879, well-to-do settlers from the East—Europe and the United States began to pour in, and settled in such numbers that Eastern business men seeing a large business to be done, located here, buildings were built right and left, and the price of real estate went up rapidly. By the end of the year there were 8,000 people in the city, 1,000 dwellings and the assessment of property was nearly $3,500,000. In June, 1880, the population had increased to 12,000, and property was assessed at $400,006,160 amongst the additions being three chartered bank branches, several wholesale houses, two private banks and other similar institutions. Emigrants still came in shoals, and when the Canadian Pacific Railway was pretty well an assured thing in 1881, the population was close upon 20,000, and the taxable property $9,196,435. Winnipeg's outlook was bright indeed. The Ogilvie Milling Company built the largest flour mill this side of Minneapolis, and the Vulcan Iron Works giving work to fifty mechanics was established. In 1882, the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway was assured by the backing of a strong company, and the inpouring of settlers was enormous. Then speculators foreseeing a chance of high prices and big profits, commenced their operations. The price of real estate went up by jumps, thousands of operators thronged the city and buying and selling again sometimes in a few minutes, in other cases practically selling it before they owned it themselves. The excitement was not confined to Winnipeg alone but extended to outside points, and as another writer has put it cities and towns sprung up everywhere—at stations or points which it was rumored were likely to be stations of the line—at places where it crossed rivers—at the intersection of streams because of the facilities for water communication in different directions—beside rapids, because the obstruction offered the advantage of being at the head of navigation—on rising ground because of the benefits of an elevated site, and a commanding prospect—and in the middle of the broad prairie for the very obvious reason that they would have plenty of room to grow. Cities here, there and everywhere.—

"Thou can'st not find one spot Whereon no city stood," says Shelley's Queen Mab, and though there may be doubts as to its strict accuracy as a general observation, few who had any experience of the Manitoba boom will be disposed to question its truth as applied to that Province. These embryo communities, it is true, were for the most part destitute even of the rudimentary blacksmith's shop and tavern that form the traditional nucleus of the Chicago's of the future. Nevertheless, their lots were held and not unfrequently sold at prices which, as compared with the cost of the land a year or two before, offered a sufficiently favorable augury of their destiny to allure investors. The moral of the "boom" of 1881-2 is as old as the story of human credulity. Speculation ran high in connection with Winnipeg property, but in that case there was a tangible basis of actual value, it was simply a question of the probable extent and rapidity of the growth of a city with an assured future. In the case of the "paper cities," however, the very names of which have now been forgotten by all except the luckless investors, no man of ordinary foresight and intelligence ought to have been deluded into supposing that such investments possessed any real value beyond the trifle which the land would fetch for farm purposes. As a matter of fact not many of even those who lost money were so deceived. The question of permanent value was the last thing they considered. They valued their purchases simply as winners in a gambling transaction and their only delusion was in entertaining the idea that the public would keep up the game long enough to enable them to win. After that there was not so much excitement until the "Edmonton boom" which made things lively again, but two circumstances, viz: the blocking of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway by snow, and the floods which followed it in spring. Emerson and other towns in the vicinity of water were flooded, and in Winnipeg the lower parts of the city was submerged. Owing to delay of freight the supplies began to run short, but on the clearing of the freight again 6,000 men built the road more than 550 miles west of the city, and well-to-do emigrants arrived to the tune of about 50,000, taking up their abode in the Northwest, making the prospects brighter than ever. Millions of money was invested in real estate and prices again ran high, and the real estate sales registered in 1882 was in the neighbourhood of $12,000,000. To illustrate the rapid increase in price we will give the transactions on one lot in 1870, in particular, a lot on Main Street was bought for $250, in 1880 part of it realized $8,000, a small building was erected and it was sold for $34,000, and in the same year it changed hands for $118,000. This is not an unparalleled case, but there were hundreds of transactions of the same sort.

Mr. A. W. Ross, M.P. who was then, and is now one of the most prominent operators in real estate, said: "I began to buy in April, 1871, David Young and John McDonald commenced to operate at the same time. But it was difficult to get any one to go into the business then. I was considered very foolish when I purchased property on Main Street, near the station, at $75.00 a foot, but people looked at it through different spectacles when I sold shortly afterwards at $400 per foot. The choice lots on Main Street which I then bought for $400, are now worth $1,500 a foot. In April, 1881, I bought some Main Street lots (below Logan), at $75 a foot and sold at $100. People thought it a good speculation, and I thought so too. Within six months the same property went for $400 a foot. The first sales of land in 1881 were among the people of Winnipeg, and the money used was owned by them, but then lying idle. There had been a considerable movement of property in 1872 and 1873. The Morris, Ross, Hudson's Bay and Bannatyne estates then put on the market brought good prices. But the movement did not last long, and a very dull time followed. In 1873 I bought lots on Portage Avenue for $120, they were absolutely unsaleable in 1880. The only property that changed hands between 1873 and 1880 was property actually wanted for building or other purposes. But in 1881 I sold those Portage Avenue lots for $500 each, and had I held them until the fall of that year I could have obtained $1,500 each. In May, 1881, Young, McDonald and myself began to operate in Main Street property. We formed a syndicate and purchased the site of the Davis House. Then they purchased farther north, and so did I. The first operators from Ontario were Joseph McKay, John Robertson and Robert McGee. They came up in the fall of 1879, or the spring of 1880, and purchased some of the best properties.

They made money. Other Ontario speculators followed, but it was not till late in the fall that the army itself arrived. The boom was greatly exaggerated in every way, and all sorts of absurd stories were published in the Eastern papers. For instance, a man might say, "I have made $30,000 to day." But half-a-dozen others might be interested in the transaction. You never could tell how much a man made. The Eastern people had an entirely mistaken idea of the boom. The boom was not in central Winnipeg property, but in outside Winnipeg property, and country towns. The boom was purely speculative. The operators went into it on the presumed requirements of the coming summer, and overdid it. The floods came, and the whole thing then collapsed. Real estate matters have been rather quiet since then, but there have been some heavy sales. I think the future of real estate here is all right. We shall have another boom in central Winnipeg property. It will not be a speculative, but a general boom. The city will continue to grow, and the demand will overtake the boom. Our future is assured."

1883 was a bad year, failure after failure occurred, by the 1st. of April there were 47 failures with liabilities of over $400,000, between April and July there were 45 more, with liabilities $596,000. Over 90 % of these men did not fail through purely trade transactions but through speculation in real estate. The third quarter of the year was almost as disastrous. The last quarter was not so bad, rents decreased 50 %, and cost of living was brought down in the same proportions and in 1884 matters were running in a far more sensible manner. The prospects for a good crop was very bright, building went on steadily. The crop turned out better than was expected and millions of bushels of wheat were exported for the first time, thus bringing money into the country which before had not been self-supporting. From that time the progress of the city has been one march of steady, solid improvement.

CHAPTER V.

THE HEART CITY OF NORTH AMERICA.—WINNIPEG, ON RED RIVER—THE METROPOLIS OF MANITOBA.

This article refers particularly to the Winnipeg of to-day. Its past is of thrilling interest, but is unfamiliar to few. Within the memory of men now in middle life, a lonely trading post of the Hudson's Bay Company, called Fort Garry, alone marked its site. This gigantic trading company occupied Fort Garry as its important post, and for this purpose they chose it well—probably better than they knew. There was a broad expanse of country, stretching from the Arctic circle to the international boundary line, and away westward thousands of miles to the Pacific ocean. Fort Garry was for many years the entrepot to this vast domain.

At this spot where the waters of the noble Red and the more rapid Assiniboine rivers mingle, and around which the romantic traditions of the early days still cluster, even in those early days the shrewd officers of this company, as if with prophetic vision, located their chief trading post, on account of the many points of vantage it possessed as a possible commercial emporium. Easy of access, both by river and trail, it was the natural trade centre of a vast country whose bounds were imperial in extent. At that time the Red river cart and the voyageurs' York boat were the only means of transportation; but these were soon to be supplemented by the iron horse and the Mississippi stern-wheeler. The commercial supremacy of Fort Garry from its earliest infancy, reaching back almost to the days of La Verandrye, down through the long years of semi-civilized life, through the dark times of rebellion, through company rule and Canadian government has never been disputed; and the proud and commanding position occupied by the Fort Garry of the past, is maintained by its more civilized offspring, the Winnipeg of to-day. It is the great mart of a country of nearly two thousand million acres of rich territory; the seat of government of the Keystone province of the Dominion of Canada, the centre of political, social, literary, monetary and manufacturing world of the Canadian West, with its suburb, St. Boniface, the fountain head of the educational institutions of not only Manitoba, but the whole Northwest.

Its positive pre-eminence is yearly becoming more pronounced and commanding. The rude log trading post, around which the semi-savage redskins prowled, the camping ground of the adventurous hunter, the resting place of the swarthy voyageur, has been, as if by magic, transformed into the prosperous, progressive and bustling modern metropolis, with all the adjuncts of the ripe and luxurious civilization that characterizes the evening of the nineteenth century. Twenty years ago a small isolated settlement, then a struggling village, then a town; when, on the advent of the first railway, it rose within a few years, to the proud position of one of the leading trade centres of the continent. The accompanying map shows the city as a railroad centre. Twelve railways, branching like spokes in a wheel, in all directions, gather the wealth of an inland empire to empty it at her feet. Three out of four of the great trans-continental railroads now centre here; and while we recognize the ability of the railways to make or unmake cities, Winnipeg is now so phenomenally a railroad centre, that no railroad in the country can afford to leave it out of its calculations.

The navigation of the Red river, lakes Winnipeg and Manitoba, the great Saskatchewan and other navigable streams, make tributary to it thousands of miles of important coast line. Seventy-five per cent. of the wheat land of North America is directly tributary to it, while untold wealth of iron, coal, salt, petroleum, gold, silver, lumber, fish, timber, furs, horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, etc. etc., go to swell resources and backing more vast and varied than are possessed by any other city in the world.

Although the facile pens of gifted writers have often described its marvellous progress, its prosperity, the enterprize of its citizens, the advantages of its location, and artists having portrayed its bustling streets and costly and substantial structures, and poets, in song have told the Alladin-like story of its birth, growth and prospects, there is much yet to tell of this rising wonder of the West, which, like an adolescent giant, sits on the rim of the great prairie—the future granary of the world—and with beckoning hands invites the home-hungering people of the congested East to its hospitable and rich domain. To-day no other city in America is attracting the attention of capitalists, and no other city can offer such inducements to investors. The most competent judges pronounce its real estate the cheapest on the continent, while we look elsewhere for a city of such natural advantages, or such a bright and dazzling future.

The following comparative statement of real estate values in a dozen other cities of about the same size as Winnipeg, has been carefully prepared, and is as nearly correct as such a table can be made. It is not necessary to comment on it. Let the figures speak.

The residence portions of the city are most beautifully and advantageously situated, and it is not an exaggeration to say that few cities anywhere possess more fully those conveniences and comforts that go to make pleasant homes. Fort Rouge, beautifully wooded, extends along the south bank of the Assiniboine. The main body of the city, including the most valuable residence property, extends for miles along the north bank of the Assiniboine. The northerly portion of the city, on the west bank of the Red, occupies a large area very suitable for building, and including within its limits a number of historic spots; while east of the Red, St. Boniface and Norwood are favorite suburbs. Many miles of electric and horse street railway make the business portion of the city easily accessible from the various suburbs.

Not the least of its attractions as a place for pleasant homes is its healthfulness. Vital statistics place it among the half-dozen cities of

WHAT TO CONSIDER.

In attending a Shorthand School, one should consider the practical results to be attained and the possibilities of their attainment, judged by its graduates.

By mistaken teaching many graduates enter into business but to learn their deficiencies. A school that does not discover and correct these is not the school in which to obtain a proper knowledge of the art. A college of shorthand should be a

America having the lowest death rate. The climate of the western territories of Canada is the finest in the world, and one of the most enjoyable. It has more sunshine than sunny Italy, and ozone is abundant in the atmosphere in a superlative degree, while its dryness and evenness of temperature are most favorable to robust health and longevity.

The city is probably most important as a trade centre. But a few years ago a dozen stores were all that it possessed. To-day there are four hundred business houses, doing an aggregate trade of over forty million dollars per year. It is naturally the wholesale and jobbing supply centre of the vast territory west of it, which is being settled by the immigrating hordes of Europe and the overflowing population of the United States ; and when we remember that this territory is capable of supporting in comfort a population of one hundred million people, we begin to realize more fully what must be the future greatness of the city that is to be the trade centre of the bulk of these millions.

Immense stocks of merchandise of all kinds, required to supply the multitudinous and various wants of all classes of people, are to be found in the splendid and imposing warehouses furnished with all modern conveniences and appliances, which are marked features of the city edifices. The agricultural implement business of the city is especially prominent, as might be expected from the fact that as yet this is pre-eminently an agricultural country. Who has not heard of "Manitoba No. 1, Hard," the finest wheat in the world? Nearly all the Canadian manufacturers, and many from the United States, have large supply houses here, to satisfy the ever-growing demand for all kinds of agricultural machinery, tools and appliances.

It is hardly necessary to mention that Winnipeg is one of the world's great grain centres ; almost twenty million bushels of grain passed through it last year. The fur trade swells the volume of business. In this line it is by far the largest primary market on the continent. A branch of trade now assuming important proportions is pork packing, and in this line the city may soon become a powerful competitor with Chicago. From the well-equipped and numerous stock yards large shipments of live cattle are constantly being made, and doubtless extensive canneries will be established for canning beef and other meats of which the supply is enormous.

A concise statement of the city's growth and development is found in the following table, and this showing is the best guarantee for the future :

GENTLEMEN.—I bought a No. 3 500-pound Safe from you about a year ago and we have just had A BIG FIRE here, burning a number of houses and buildings. THE SAFE I BOUGHT OF YOU WENT THROUGH THE FIRE NICELY, and ALL its CONTENTS were SAVED, though many other larger Safes of other makes were in the fire and DID NOT STAND FIRE near as well as yours, so your Safe gets a big boom here, and I want the agency as I can sell a good many of your Safes.

Yours truly,

T. G. THOMAS.

The proof walls are filled with the best known non-conducting concrete, the secret of its fire-proof qualities being the chemical change that takes place upon its being heated to a certain degree, which generates a vapor that fills all the pores in the concrete, thereby forming a cool, moist wall around the contents during its subjection to the heat.

Strong Points of Singer Machines for FAMILY Use.

Interested parties often tell confiding people that "the SINGER" is a good machine for manufacturing, but is not intended for family use.

This is not true.

We sell every year, more machines to families than are sold by any other three sewing machine companies combined.

Over seven million SINGER Family machines have been sold to families.

Three-fourths of all the Family machines sold annually throughout the world are SINGERS; and probably three-fourths of all the manufacturing machines are also SINGERS.

The "reasons why" are these:

1. New Improvements. Our latest machines have more improvements, and more valuable ones, than are found on any other machines.
2. Simplicity of Construction. They are so simple that a child can quickly learn to operate them.
3. Light Running. A child can operate our latest improved machines with ease.
4. Noiseless. Our latest machines are the least noisy of any shuttle machines.
5. Great Strength. They stitch the heaviest woollens as well as the thinnest gauze.
6. Durability. There are SINGER MACHINES in good order to-day, after being in use from 20 to 30 years.
7. Utility. We never sacrifice utility, strength and durability to mere show. Our machines are made to sew—and to sew everything—and to sew everything well—and are not varnished and gilded over to hide defects.
8. Staying Qualities. Buyers of other machines often find themselves unable to procure necessary parts or repairs, because the Company which made them has gone out of business (as over fifty Sewing Machine Companies have in the past ten years). Such machines then become valueless to their owners. No buyer of a SINGER experiences such a loss. We have been in the field since 1850—and are here to stay.
9. Repairs and Teaching. We are retailers as well as manufacturers, and have about five thousand offices, covering every part of the civilized world, and conducted by our own salaried agents. Every SINGER agent is under positive instructions to look after any SINGER machine needing attention or repairs, without regard to where it was purchased, and customers are requested to notify the Principal Office whenever their needs do not meet prompt and proper attention from our local agents.

The manufacturing interests of the city are extensive, various and growing. As yet, steam and electric powers alone have been used for this purpose, but soon the ten thousand horse power of the Assiniboine will be under control and made to turn the wheels for new manufacturing, milling and other industries. The building of the Hudson Bay railroad, which is assured, is of almost continental interest, but has a very special bearing upon Winnipeg, which is its headquarters.

The Winnipeg & Duluth road, which is under construction, will still further accelerate the city's already rapid growth. Other new railways are projected into yet undeveloped tracts of territory, and these all are centering in Winnipeg. Cheap fuel, good water, good drainage and good living at a moderate cost are among the city's numerous advantages.

The following statements by well known and disinterested outsiders may be interesting :

U. S. Consul Taylor says : "Seventy-five per cent. of the wheat belt of the North American continent lies north of the forty-ninth parallel. This is tributary to Winnipeg—a city which has the largest productive country behind her of any city in the world."

Col. Fanning, city engineer of Minneapolis, says : "Winnipeg, with its great water power, is destined to become a large manufacturing centre."

Professor Tanner, lecturer on agriculture at South Kensington, writes : "Here it is where the champion soils of the world are to be found."

W. C. Van Horne, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said : "I think the time has now come. We are on the eve of a great change in the Northwest ; the time we have been looking for so anxiously is now close at hand when the wild lands west of us will be settled up, and Winnipeg will become what your chairman will testify—what I have always said it would—the greatest city in Canada. Occupying the position it does, commanding the trade and market of the Northwest, it will become a Chicago of Canada, just as Chicago will become from its position, and very soon, too, the greatest city in the United States, for the same reason that Winnipeg will become the centre of Canada."

On the same occasion, Mr. Davidson, president of the Board of Trade of the city of Toronto, said : "I think it is a wonderful country, whose greatness even the people who live here do not realize. From a commercial standpoint the prospects for its future development cannot be estimated, its possibilities are beyond comprehension. In respect to climate I have found it warmer here and the season more advanced than we ever experienced in the vicinity of Toronto. Winnipeg I consider to be one of the substantial cities of the Dominion ; it has an impressive appearance: and the people, to use the vernacular of the West, seem to be "rustlers." I like Winnipeg. I like the great fertile plains; and I think the future of Canada will be worked out by the people who shall inhabit the country west of Lake Superior."

- PRIZES - HORSES.

Stalls will not be allotted till horses arrive on the grounds.

All stall doors must be left open, so that visitors can inspect the horses between the hours of 9 a.m. and 11 a.m., and at such other times as exhibitors may find it desirable. All stalls must be cleaned out before 7 a.m. so that refuse can be cleared away before the arrival of visitors.

All animals competing for prizes must be entered in the names of their bona-fide owners, or their duly authorised agents; should doubts arise, the Judges may require affidavits of ownership from the exhibitor.

No horse will be allowed to enter or compete in more than one class or section (except for the diploma for the best horse or mare of any age in its class for the special prizes, and for prizes for speeding in the horse ring.)

Horses must be shown uncovered, and in such a manner as the Judges may require or allow; and if exhibitors refuse to submit to the proper requirements of the Judges, their animals will be ruled out. In the roadster and carriage classes exhibitors should come prepared to show their horses in harness if required.

All horses competing for prizes in this department must be brought out for the inspection of the Judges, or for exhibition, whenever called out by the official appointed to attend to that duty.

Non compliance with any of these rules, or the general rules of the Association, on the part of any exhibitor or his employee, shall incur the forfeiture of any premium awarded.

Exhibitors who may desire to take their horses home at night will be allowed to do so on depositing $5 with the Secretary as a guarantee for the return of the animal next morning. If the horse is not returned by 10 o'clock the next morning, the amount deposited will be forfeited to the Association.

Entry Fees—Stallions 3 years old and upwards, $1.50 each; all other horses over one year $1.00 each; all other horses one year and under, 50c. ea.

These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, ever-lasting Steel AERMOTOR. WHERE ONE GOES OTHERS FOLLOW, and "we take the country."

This unprecedented success is due:—

1st. To the fact that before commencing the manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer, in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, propelled by artificial and therefore uniform wind, by which were settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, obstruction in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the vaneless mill, and numerous other more abstruse, though not less important, questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the Aermotor daily demonstrates it has been done.

2nd. To the liberal policy of the Company, that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and

3rd. To the enormous output of its factory which has made possible a reduction of prices, so that it furnishes the best article at less than the poorest is sold for.

If you want a firm Fixed Tower, made of Strong, Stiff Steel, and a Wheel that will cost you less than wood, and last 10 times as long—if you want the tower you don't have to climb (the tilting tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, or if you want a Wheel that will churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone, and saw wood, i.e. a Geared Aermotor that will do the work of four horses at the cost of one, write for copiously illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of Windmill construction and work.

DOGS.

Class 54.

This Department of the Exhibition is under the management of a Committee of the "Manitoba Field Trials Club," and is governed by the following Rules and Regulations:

1. The term "dog," where used in these rules, is general in its application.
2. All dogs entered for competition or exhibition only shall be entered in the name of the bona fide owner.
3. Dogs to be eligible for special prizes must in all cases be entered in their regular classes, and no dog eligible for special prizes can be withdrawn from competition unless it has been stated on entry blanks, "Will not compete for special prizes."
4. The committee reserve to themselves the right of declining any entries they may see fit, or of removing any dog on account of disease, vice or other cause.

We get Work from all parts of the country.

sole agents for the "New Williams" Sewing Machine.

MANITOBA STEAM LAUNDRY.—Telephone 26.
Hanby Bros., Props., 220 Notre Dame Street.

5. In miscellaneous classes judges will award prizes only to dogs of a recognized breed, that have no regular classes assigned. Dogs that have a regular class provided for them will not be allowed to compete in the miscellaneous class.

6. The decisions of the judges shall be final in all cases, except where mistake, fraud, misrepresentation or collusion can be shown. In such cases the managers or such referee as they may appoint, must decide all cases, and the dog must be rejudged.

Special Regulations.

1. Each person exhibiting will pay an entrance fee of 50c. for each dog entered as provided by section 3 of the general regulations.

2. All entries in the dog class must be made on the special entry form provided, one of which is attached opposite the rules of this department.

3. The entry ticket for each dog must be carefully preserved. Any exhibitor wanting to take a dog out of the building at night will be required to show the ticket and deposit with the Dog Superintendent $5 for each dog taken out, which will only be returned if the animal is brought back into the building by nine o'clock on the following morning.

4. No dog will be received unless supplied with a suitable collar and chain.

5. The judging will commence on Tuesday, September 28th, at two o'clock promptly. During the hours of judging no dog shall be taken from its stall, not even by its owner; and if any dog is not found in its stall when called for by the judge, the judging will proceed without it. This rule will be rigidly enforced, that the judging may not be retarded. Owners are requested to be near their dogs, and when the class is called to bring their animals before the judge. In the absence of the owner attendants will take the dog before the judge.

6. The term "Dog" means a male specimen whelped prior to October 1st, 1890. "Bitch" means a female specimen; whelped prior to October 1st, 1890.
